Mrs. Kendal Tells How the Play Princeton's President Thinks the Came to Be Written.

Horses Harder to Get than Actresses | Harvard Men Who Are in Training--Other Stage News.

Mrs. Kendal was very surprised and such a thing for a minute. I'm past that kind of thing." Nothing more was said on the subject. A few weeks later Grundy dined again with the Kendals. He said he had two portraits to sketch for them. One of them represented a woman—a good-natured woman, with roman-a good-natured woman, with and a slight propensity for setting her neighbors right. She was not a busybody and never made herself objectionable, but she had ideas of her own and liked to air them occasionally. "What an excellent portrait," said Mrs. Kendal, when he had finished, "and how carefully you must have studied my little peculiarities, for, of course, I recognize myself, as you undoubtedly mean me to do." Grundy smiled and proceeded to sketch the other portrait. It was that of a man, easy-going, always good-tempered and rather inclined to let things go their own way. He was intelligent and always had his eyes open, but the world did not know this and was inclined to regard him as indolent and sleepy. "Get up and bow, Mr. Kendal," said Mrs. Kendal, when Grundy had finished this picture. "for it is you to the life." Not very long after this Grundy sent them "A White Lie," in which the two portraits were introduced. and a slight propensity for setting her

The departure of Miss Sydney Armstrong from "The Girl I Left Behind Me" did not trouble the managers very much. They were asked why they did not change the objectionable horses to please the lady. "Oh," was the reply of one of the gentlemen, "we can get actresses any day, but horses are not so easy to find, and we have a fine collection of them in this drama."

Len't this quite too exquisitely pathetic?

Isn't this quite too exquisitely pathetic?
Those California "favorites," Joseph Grismer and Phoebe Diavis, who condescended to honor New York with their idea of "The New South," have returned to the Pacific Stope. Miss Davis, as soon as she reached the California State line,
threw herself upon her knees and kissel
the ground of her adopted sunny land.
With such a teeming affection for California, it is strange that she should have consented to leave it, even for the benign purpose of educating New York up to a proper appreciation of "The New South." How deeply we should appreciate the sacrifice she must have made.

Manager E. E. Rice has received many funny letters since he has been in the city with "1492," and one or two of them have been published in this column, but a missive that reached him Saturday certainly takes the drollery prize. It was from a Sixth avenue girl, who, after asking for an engagement, ends her note in this way: "I am an experienced chorus girl. I have soprano voise, and very good figure. I have worn a costume under my street dress (tights and tight fitting bodice), for I thought that should there be an opportunity you might desire to see my figure before engaging me." Mr. Rice simply shrieked with laughter when he read this letter.

Of these men Storrs, Coolidge, Stickney, Hollister and Phillips are all new men, but their preliminary work has been such as to warrant their selection.

The principals in the five boxing bouts of six rounds each which will be held at the Grand Central Palace. Forty-third street and Lexington avenue, to-night, arrived in the city from their respective training quarters last night. All the men are said to be in good condition. Jimmy Lynch looks better than he has in all his previous battles, and Johnny Gorman, his opponent, is two pounds below the stipulated weight. Al O'Brien arrived from Philadelphia yesterday afternoon. Joe Harmon, who is to meet him, is an odds-on favorite. Sammy Kelly and Bob Cunningham will settle an old score when they face each other. George Siddons and Eddie Loeber are expected to put up a good go. Billy Ahearn and Jim Holmes will battle at 135 pounds.
